

Shah Architecture -

FIRM PROFILE

Shah Architecture is a small Architectural firm focused on providing comprehensive design vision and value based building strategies. The firm was founded in 2010 by Reshma Shah Johnson in an effort to carry her 13 years of custom residential experience to the luxury hospitality and multi-family markets. Joined in 2013 by Michael Johnson, the firm widened its market base and depth of experience. Michael came from a background of managing large institutional projects and users. Together they work to bring big project experience and personal touch to developers, institutions, and real estate professionals.

Shah Architecture differentiates itself by offering relationships rather than project services. We work with investors, institutions, and property management to inform decisions and open possibilities when evaluating property development and investment. We understand that our clients' best interest is also our own.

When it comes to service and accessibility, you will find no better. Our clients always have a direct line to the firm principals. When you build a firm around being a resource rather than just providing a service you are able to align your priorities with those of your clients. This ability to act quickly and provide insight regarding development costs or regulatory issues gives the advantage to those who make us part of their team.

When our relationships do turn up a design project, we are here to offer an superior product. Shah Architecture's designs have been widely recognized as exceptional. We do things a little differently; we design any space or structure from the inside out. That means we spend as much time (if not more) thinking about how you live or work in a space as we do developing what it looks like from the outside. We work to provide our clients with sustainable, functional, and beautiful spaces adding value to any project.

"I have worked with Shah Architecture on a number of projects and each one has been a great experience. They are very talented, creative, good communicators, timely, dependable and diligent....a recipe for success."

Bill Lattimore
 President, The Lattimore Company

"...Mr. Johnson engaged board, staff and public in a design of our facilities. He capably dovetailed various wants and needs, comments and concerns, expectations and desires into a cohesive design that will adapt well into the future...."
